35th Annual Meeting

Novel Treatment Strategies in Psychiatry:

Neurobiology and Clinical Significance

28th August 2015

Campus Biotech Geneva

WELCOME MESSAGE

Dear Colleagues,

We have the great pleasure to invite you to the 35th Annual Meeting of the Swiss Society of Biological Psychiatry, which will take place on 28th August 2015 in Geneva.

The 2015 Meeting will focus on Novel Treatment Strategies in Psychiatry: Neurobiology and Clinical Significance.

We will have the privilege to attend five keynote lectures given by Prof. Dr. Kim Do Cuénod (CHUV Lausanne), Prof. Thomas Dierks (Psychiatric University Hospital Bern), Prof. Luc Mallet (University Hospitals Geneva), Prof. Erich Seifritz (Psychiatric University Hospital Zürich) and Prof. Andreas Papassotiropoulos (University of Basel). We thank them in advance for their highly esteemed contributions.

The program also features oral presentations and a poster session; we hope that the subject of “Novel Treatment Strategies in Psychiatry: Neurobiology and Clinical Significance” will prompt many among you to actively participate in these presentations.

All other details regarding the course of the Meeting can be found on the program below. We trust that the various activities planned for the 28th August 2015 will meet with your interest, and that we will have an opportunity to share experience, expand our networks, discuss collaborations and cultivate friendships.

We look forward to welcoming you in Geneva.

Prof. Martin Hatzinger
President SSBP

Prof. Jean-Michel Aubry
President Local Organizing Committee
